REFERENCING

Referencing acknowledges the sources that you use to write your essay or assignment paper. Please see the section of this guide regarding intellectual honesty and plagiarism.

Citations are used throughout your writing to acknowledge the sources of your information. The full details of the citations are listed at the end of your assignment paper in a Bibliography. Note that bibliographies are not always required in law assignments. You should check the requirements for the particular assignment to see if a Bibliography is required.

It is important to first consult your learning guide, lecturer or tutor for the preferred citation style for each unit you undertake.

ACADEMIC HONESTY AND PLAGIARISM

At Western Sydney University plagiarism falls within the framework of the Student Misconduct Rule and its associated guidelines.

Further information about the importance of academic honesty is available on the Library website.

ABOUT THE AGLC4 STYLE

The ALGC4 citation style is used widely for academic legal writing. The AGLC4 uses a numerical system of footnotes or endnotes with a Bibliography (where required).

Examples of the most common types of citations used by students are included in this guide. It is based on Australian Guide Legal Citation 4th edition, which is available in print via the Library catalogue. If you are unable to find the referencing example, you require in this guide, more examples can be found online.

REFERENCING SOURCES WITHIN THE TEXT OF THE PAPER

Throughout the text of your paper you must acknowledge the sources used in your writing. Whenever you present a statement of evidence such as a quote, or when you use someone else's ideas, opinions or theories in your own words (paraphrasing), you must acknowledge your sources.

The AGLC4 style is a numbered system whereby authorship is acknowledged using a number to represent the reference. The reader can follow this in-text number to the corresponding number in the footnote listed at the bottom of the page. Citation numbers should be inserted in superscript and be placed at the end of the portion of text to which corresponding footnotes refer.

When you summarise the general idea of a source in your own words, you must cite the author or body responsible for the work. A new number is used for each citation, even for a previously cited source.

Every time you wish to cite a source, place the number at the end of the sentence after punctuation. Sometimes, for clarity, you may need to place the footnote number directly after the relevant text (after any relevant punctuation).

She observed that 'the threshold for determining that an international organisation has 'effective control' over an operation ought to be high'.¹

If you directly provide fewer than four lines of a quote, enclose the quotation by single quotation marks.

As Dworkin observed, 'it is inconsistent in principle among the acts of the state personified that integrity condemns'.²

Note: Page number(s) for quotes should be provided in the footnote. If there are no page numbers, then paragraph numbers alone should be used. See examples throughout this guide.

Long quotations (of four lines or more) should appear indented from the left margin, in a smaller font size, and without quotations marks (Rule 1.5.1).

The Judge stated:

Thus elaborating, the first question is whether 'a first question is whether 'a financial benefit is given' within the meaning of s 229 of the Corporation Act (in relation to the prohibition on related party benefits without member approval). The second question is whether the exception ... in s 210 ... is made out ...³

FOOTNOTES

The first time a source is cited, the footnote must provide full bibliographic detail. Footnotes for subsequent references to the same source do not repeat all the details. Use 'Ibid' where the immediately preceding footnote refers to the same work.

Any other repeated source should be linked to a previous reference by using (n) followed by the appropriate footnote reference:

Author Surname (n Footnote Number) Pinpoint.

A pinpoint reference is a reference to a specific page, paragraph, footnote or other section of a source. A pinpoint should immediately follow the citation of the source. The pinpoint reference to a paragraph should appear as a number in square brackets. If both a page and a paragraph are referred to, both should be included in the pinpoint. A full stop should appear at the end of every footnote.

- 10 Alpana Roy, Australian Domain Name Law (Thomson Reuters, 2016) 232.
- 11 Ibid 236.
- 12 CCH Australia, Australian Master Tax Guide (Wolters Kluwer, 64th ed, 2019) 82.
- 13 Dietrich v The Queen (1992) 177 CLR 292, 323 [5].
- 14 Roy (n 10) 235.

To cite two or more references together place them in a footnote using only one number to represent them in text. Separate the references in the footnote using a semi-colon and place them in the order in which they appear in the text.

- 2 Muschinski v Dodds (1985) 160 CLR 583; Baumgartner v Baumgartner (1987) 164 CLR 137; Bryson v Bryant (1992) 29 NSWLR 188.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

A Bibliography is a list of the full details of all the sources you cited in your paper. In the AGLC4 style the bibliography starts on a separate page at the end of your assignment paper and is titled Bibliography. The Bibliography contains details of the sources used in writing your paper and can include works not cited in your paper that you consulted in your research.

The Bibliography is divided into sections below, however a section may be omitted if not needed.

A Articles/Books/Reports

B Cases

C Legislation

D Treaties

E Others

All sources appearing in the Bibliography must be ordered alphabetically by surname of the first author or title if no author is identified. An author's first name and surname should be inverted and separated by a comma. For works by two or more authors, only the first author's name and surname should be inverted. Full stops should not follow the citation.
